Mind

Mind “Intellectual” Enrichment: Exercising the brain benefits our residents by improving attention, enhancing memory, and increasing independence. Our communities offer brain activities such as book clubs, trivia nights, and educational speakers to keep the brain stimulated and engaged.

Body

Body “Physical” Enrichment: Physical activity is important for our seniors’ overall health, and helps to improve or maintain balance, mobility, and pain control. Fitness classes offered at our communities are easily modified for any level of fitness and include classes such as chair yoga, walking clubs, chair or standing aerobics, and more.

Soul

Soul “Self” Enrichment: Enriching the soul can take on many forms. It might be self-reflection and improvement, serving others to create a positive force, or connecting with others and having a sense of belonging.

Marion Woods pioneers the way for our valued seniors in their search for purpose, validation, and fulfillment. We serve the needs of our residents and their families by providing unsurpassed attention to their quality of life, fostering spirituality, and exploring together meaningful life experiences. We provide ongoing opportunities to stimulate personal growth and engage each resident in mind, body, and soul.
